Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-2, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Flannery (US publication 2002/0086711 A1).

Regarding claim 1, Flannery teaches an electronic apparatus comprising:
a first casing and a second casing which are foldable to each other along a bearing portion (see figure 4, page 2 section 0022)), wherein a front face and back face of one of the first casing and the second casing are formed with respective sound emission holes that are opposed to each other (page 2 section 0022); and wherein a speaker is provide at a position corresponding to the sound emission holes (page 2 section 0022, see figure 4).

Art Unit: 2686

Regarding claim 2, Flannery teaches an electronic apparatus wherein a front face of the first facing and the second casing is formed with a through hole that is opposed to the sound emission hole in a state that the first casing and the second casing are folded together (page 2 sections 0022-0024, see figure 4).

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
